

Bloody, Indecisive Fighting Rages Into Fifth Day

County Girl Awarded First Prize In Pennsylvania Schools Contest

A Monroe County farm girl walked off with first prize and a $500 savings bond in a Statewide essay contest sponsored by the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, it was learned last night.

The girl—Myrtle Bonser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bonser, Brodheadsville—is a senior student at Chestnuthill Township High School. John C. Mills is supervising principal of the school.

A second Monroe County student—Nelson Sax, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sax, Tobyhanna, a Coolbaugh Township High School student—was awarded a $50 savings bond for another of the top ten prizes. Warren Nonnemaker is principal at that school.

With the prize-winning essays by Miss Bonser and Sax, Monroe County's township schools came out of the Statewide contest (where they competed with hundreds of winners from all other Pennsylvania counties and cities) with an even one-fifth of the total State prizes awarded.

There were only ten prizes given in the entire competition.

In competition within Monroe County, neither of the two State prize winners were awarded the first prize.

Miss Bonser received $7.50 for the third prize in the county. Sax got $5 and fourth prize. The local contest's two top winners were John Eaton of East Stroudsburg (first) and Michael Sharlot, Stroudsburg, second.

Neither Eaton nor Sharlot placed in the top ten in the State.

Announcement of the State winners was made by State headquarters through Wyckoff's Department Store in Stroudsburg and the Buck Hill Falls Association, both members of the organization in this area.

J. L. Kerlin, an official at the Wyckoff store, said last night Miss Bonser's first prize award would be presented at a school assembly program at Chestnuthill "sometime during Pennsylvania Week" (next week).

The Buck Hill Association will make the presentation to Sax in a similar school assembly program at Coolbaugh Township Consolidated School during the week.

Under the general heading "Know Your Pennsylvania," students of Monroe County schools were asked to submit essays on "How Pennsylvania's Schools Are Helping to Defend Freedom."

All schools in the county cooperated in the contest. Entries were submitted to County Superintendent John C. Litts who was chairman of the contest.

Litts, in turn, submitted the entries to Dr. T. Edward Terrill, head of the State Teachers College English department, East Stroudsburg, who acted as judge for the county contest.

The four prize-winning essays were then submitted to the State competition which was supervised by the State Department of Commerce in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction.

The local contest was sponsored by the County Manufacturers Association which donated the money for cash prizes.

When she learned she had won first prize in the State competition last night, Myrtle Bonser was "too excited" to say much.

The large, brown-eyed girl, visibly excited by the news, talked only of her school, her family and her home.

She is firmly convinced that, if all Pennsylvania schools are like Chestnuthill, educators are doing a "wonderful job of preparing their students for the responsibility of citizenship."

At Chestnuthill, where her English literature instructor is Henry Hoffman and her grammar instructor is Nathan Kunkle, Miss Bonser is attending a school in which her family has been educated.

She has five brothers and sisters—only one of whom is younger (Continued on page twelve)

Myrtle Bonser, Chestnuthill High School senior, who won first prize ($500) in the contest is shown seated on the right. Another Monroe County student—Nelson Sax, of Coolbaugh Township High School—is seated on the left. Sax won $50 for another of the top ten prizes. Standing behind the two students are John C. Gov. Stevenson Stands Pat On Civil Rights, Tidelands Issues, Blast GOP Foreign Policy

New Orleans, (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson invaded the Far South last night with a no compromise stand on ticklist civil rights and tidelands oil issues and an attack on what he termed the "suicidal foreign trade fanaticism" of the GOP.

The Democratic presidential nominee—the first ever to campaign deep in Dixie—stood pat on the Democratic civil rights platform and said he believes a settlement fair to both the states and federal government can be worked out on tidelands oil.

Stevenson flew into Louisiana after a mid-day campaign in Oklahoma.

Stevenson told the Sooners he is willing to let the election be decided on the issue of peace because "the Democratic party knows a lot more" about the road to it than the GOP.

Then, in an address at a Democratic rally here at Beauregard Square, the Illinois governor tackled two of the hottest issues in the South, while holding out the contention that Dixie has reached a "Pike's Peak" of growth and well-being under Democratic administration.

And here in a great port city, with its ebb and flow of world commerce, he whaled away at the GOP as a party that has always been for high tariffs and quotas. He said a blight would descend on New Orleans if the view of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio against reciprocal trade agreements were to prevail.

The GOP position on foreign trade, Stevenson contended, plays into the hands of the Soviets.

"I say to you with the utmost conviction," he said, "that if we follow the suicidal foreign trade fanaticism of the Republican party, we may condemn this nation to isolation and destruction."

Stalin, he said, proposes to conquer this country, not by arms, "but by taking advantage of what he believes to be our stupidity."

Right at the start, the Illinois governor pitched in on civil rights with the statement that "I stand on the Democratic platform."

The platform pledges the party to "continue our efforts to eradicate discrimination based on race, religion or national origin."

Gen. Eisenhower, campaigning in the South early in September, touched on civil rights by remarking, without elaboration, that the Declaration of Independence says all men are created free and equal, and doesn't mention the color of their skins.

Free World Needs Strong U.S., Says Ike

Aboard Eisenhower Campaign Plane (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, carrying his presidential campaign to the Southwest, warned yesterday "there is no hope that the free world can combine to hold back Communism" without a strong United States.

Making four speeches in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah, the Republican presidential candidate hammered hard on the necessity for creating a government that will unify all groups in the nation.

As he moved eastward yesterday from California, the general was following the exact route taken last month by his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. He was outdrawing Stevenson in size of the crowds at every point.

Steve Alex, chairman for an Albuquerque rally, announced there were more than 10,000 persons by official police estimate at the University of New Mexico to hear Eisenhower's speech. Stevenson drew some 5,000 at Highland High School auditorium in Albuquerque.

Although Arizona and New Mexico were carried by the Democrats for President Truman in 1948, Republican strategists consider them "doubtful states." They are fighting hard, with the general himself spearheading the attack, to put these states in the Republican column this year.

Apparently in line with that battle, Eisenhower scored the Truman administration at each stop yesterday on a series of accusations.

The main one, he said, was that present government has lost the confidence of the people. More than that, he said, it has lost prestige in the eyes of the nations of the western world. And he said that unity and prestige must be restored if the country is to lead the struggle against Communism.

"We do not have that strong America," Eisenhower said, "there is no hope that the free world can combine to hold back Communism. We hold back Communism not only by putting up a solid front in the places where it may seek to affect military aggression but by fighting those misfortunes, those conditions that are favorable to the propagation of that dread disease."

Eisenhower identified the conditions as "poverty, ignorance and squalor."

Much of what Eisenhower had to tell his audience in these states dealt with regional problems of special interest to the people here. He reminded his audiences that the Reclamation Act is 50 years old this year and scorned Democratic claims that a Republican administration would build no more of the great public projects in the West.

Sordoni Sees Incodel Plan Inundating State Lands, Putting Miners Out Of Work

Philadelphia, (AP)—State Commerce Secretary Andrew J. Sordoni said yesterday the Interstate Commission on the Delaware (Incodel) plan for developing the upper Delaware River would "put thousands of Pennsylvania miners out of work and inundate thousands of acres of state lands."

Speaking at a luncheon in connection with the opening of the seventh annual Pennsylvania Week, Sordoni told the mayors of 17 cities in the state:

"All Pennsylvania would get out of it is interest and a slight amortization on the bonds."

The Incodel commission has recommended erection of a series of dams and reservoirs along the upper Delaware River at an estimated cost of a half a billion dollars. The work would be done jointly by the states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

As part of the program, New York City, Philadelphia and other metropolitan areas could use the new facilities as a water source. Later, Sordoni said the power created through the Incodel plan "would compete with private power manufactured with coal dug from the hills of Pennsylvania by Pennsylvania miners."

The president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce J. Harry Labrum, told the visiting mayors "we will all need your help to fight the plan. The New York City officials think the people are entitled to better water than the people of Pennsylvania."

The commission two weeks ago in its annual session heard Pennsylvania officials report that their own water and power resources board is examining the plan submitted by the commission.

Replying to a written question from correspondents covering his campaign, about whether he would make public "your income tax or financial statement giving substantially the same information," the general answered:

"Of course. If anyone is interested in it, I will make it public as soon as it's complete. It's virtually all a matter of public record anyway."

The general's press secretary, who read Eisenhower's reply, was asked if he knew when the report would be ready. He said he had nothing to add to what Eisenhower said.

The correspondents' question contained the phrase "make public before the election."

Eisenhower's affirmative statement yesterday contrasted with what he said on the same subject in a lounge conversation with correspondents. At that time, he put his remarks off the record but indicated he did not intend to make a public statement on his finances.

In that Sunday conversation, Eisenhower said:

"I don't think I'm going to do anything about it. So far I don't see any reason for making it public. Everybody knows about that book (Crusade in Europe—his war memoirs). The figures were all printed on it. I wrote the Internal Revenue Bureau about it and asked what I could do. They gave me several avenues, and I chose one. That's all a matter of record."

"I've had lots of letters on the question and not one says I ought to make a statement. What's more, I don't see why I should dance to the other fellow's tune. I haven't decided but as of now I don't think I'll do anything about it."

Goose Maintains Vigil Over Body Of Mate Killed By Car

If there are any disillusioned souls in the audience who think there is no loyalty among human beings—here's a heartening story.

Frank Fitzgerald, owner of the Briar Heath Antique Shop, Snyder'sville, was the proud owner of a pair of geese.

One of the geese was an African goose. Thirteen years old, as nearly as Mr. Fitzgerald could tell.

This African goose was joined some years back by a white Chinese goose which Fitzgerald believes to be nine years old.

The two became devoted companions. They were seen everywhere together.

Yesterday, the African goose was hit by a passing motorist. The car killed the goose instantly.

Fitzgerald carried the goose in to his back yard. All day yesterday the Chinese goose remained close to the other's body, "talking" in a rattling voice to its silent partner.

Every now and then the goose would lean down and pull the other's head up, lifting it off the ground in an effort to revive it.

This went on until dark last night.

The antique shop dealer tried desperately to bury the dead goose. Each time he approached it, however, the other goose would stand defiantly in front of the body, daring Fitzgerald to take another step.

When the sun went down last night the body still lay like a broken patch on the Fitzgerald lawn.

From the window, Fitzgerald could see the Chinese goose standing over it.

The burial was postponed to today.

ROKs Press Toward Crest Of Mountain

Seoul, Korea (AP)—South Korean infantrymen today wrested complete control of strategic White Horse Hill from the Chinese Communists, a U. N. frontline officer reported.

Seoul (AP)—The bloody, indecisive battle of White Horse Mountain on the Korean Western Front today raged into its fifth day with the Chinese Reds ready to throw 16,000 fresh troops into the struggle.

Never-say-die South Korean infantrymen battled back to within 150 yards of its crest under fierce Chinese Red artillery and mortar fire.

Rain was falling, making progress still more difficult.

The height, guarding the approaches to the Chonwon Valley, on one of the main invasion routes to Seoul, changed hands more than a score of times since Monday, and seven times on Friday alone. It was the fiercest action in more than a year.

Wild hand-to-hand fighting in pitch darkness late Friday tumbled the South Korean Ninth Division troops off the crest. They reformed and launched a counter-attack early today.

Front reports said the Chinese Reds massed 16,000 fresh men in two divisions—within "easy striking range" just north of the mountain. Intelligence officers reported the Red reinforcements were in a position to be thrown into the fight if the Communists ordered.

Allied and Communist tanks dived on the lower slopes. Allied planes dropped flares to light up the eerie battle scene.

Fighting continued Friday at several other points on the 25-mile front, but was dwarfed by the action at White Horse. The U. S. Eighth Army reported Allied troops regained control of Big Nori Hill, eight miles northwest of Yonchon. It was one of seven outposts hills overrun when 15,000 Chinese Reds launched their big drive Monday night.

Big Nori is less than eight miles southwest of Chonwon, and now a pivotal U. N. defense point near which the White Horse battle rages.

Bad weather over much of North Korea hampered air strikes. U. S. Sabes jets did not patrol MIG Alley.

Fighter-bombers concentrated their blows on the White Horse hill sector. They blasted Red bunkers and artillery positions with bombs, rockets and jelled gasoline. At night they dropped flares and hammered at the crest.

Conviction Set Aside

Boston (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals set aside yesterday the conviction of ousted Internal Revenue Collector Denis W. Delaney because he was forced to stand trial in "the hostile atmosphere engendered by all the pre-trial publicity."

The 58-year-old former collector was convicted in January of accepting bribes and falsifying tax liens. He was given a two-year sentence and fined $10,500.

The decision of the Court of Appeals leaves it to the attorney general whether a new trial will be ordered. In Washington, Atty. Gen. McGranery said: "We are waiting for a copy of the opinion. Until we see the opinion and analyze it, we will not make any decision."

Delaney, out on $25,000 bail, said: "This news overjoys me. I never did a criminal act in my life. I welcome a new trial."

The publicity which preceded the trial in Boston came in part from newspaper coverage of hearings in Washington by a congressional sub-committee. The conduct of the deposed collector and numerous accusations against him were heard by the committee after his indictment.

Draft Quota Set At 5,356 Men

Harrisburg (AP)—State selective service headquarters yesterday ordered 5,356 Pennsylvanians called up to meet the December draft quota.

The inductees, all 20 years or older, are the state's share of a national quota of 47,000.

The December quota compares with 6,204 summoned for November.

Their induction will bring the year's state total to 32,553 and the total since the draft was reactivated in September, 1950, to 78,551.

Church Membership More Than Doubled Since Rev. Eaton Became Pastor Eleven Years Ago

Heading one of the largest congregations in this section, a parish enrollment of 1,632 members, is the important assignment handed ably by Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Back in 1942 when Rev. Eaton reported for assignment here the church roll listed 637 active members. But the cooperative efforts of members and the leadership ability of Rev. Eaton have swelled the rolls to the present history-making total.

And an expansion program currently is under consideration by the property committee of the church. Only recently a frame building located just west of the S. Courtland Street Church was razed, giving additional 40 by 160 feet for the building program. The church itself now covers about 120 by 150 feet, an indication of the massive structure that seats 600 persons in the auditorium and can be augmented to accommodate about 1,200.

The history of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church dates back to 1874 when the Christian faithful assembled in what was then a match box factory to worship. Later a church was constructed and in 1922 the cornerstone transferred to the present building which was completed one year later.

Rev. Eaton was born in Malone, N.Y., Aug. 27, 1904, the son of Everett Leslie and Lila Howland Eaton. His father was also a Methodist minister. Frequently the family moved, since the minister was a circuit rider and had assignments in many parishes. Rev. Eaton jokingly claims "We moved so often it was said when the children saw my father returning from conference they automatically rolled over their feet in the air waiting to be tied and taken to another place." But in 13 years the Eaton family moved nine times and the East Stroudsburg minister managed to grasp his education in flurries.

After assuming pastorates in at least six New York State communities, the elder Rev. Eaton was detached from the conference, and the moves thereafter were even more frequent.

Rev. Harold Eaton graduated from the Taylor University High School in Upland, Ind., and received his AB degree in 1926 from Asbury College, Wilkes-Barre, Ky. He proudly states that 90 percent of the graduating class entered full-time Christian work. In the same year Rev. Eaton won a certificate in voice training from Asbury College. He enrolled in seminary in 1926 and a year later became pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church, Bryn Mawr, near Philadelphia.

Under the Philadelphia conference, Rev. Eaton continued his ministry education by taking summer courses and was ordained an elder in 1930. He served as pastor of the Bryn Mawr church for eight years before becoming pastor of Columbia Avenue Methodist Church, Philadelphia, one of the oldest churches in the city. After six years there he moved to East Stroudsburg, assuming the pastorate here March 13, 1941.

Rev. Eaton married the former Fannie Elizabeth Geer in Italy Valley, N.Y., in 1932. The couple have two sons, Harold G., 19, a sophomore at West Chester State Teachers College, preparing for music and John, 17, who will graduate in June from East Stroudsburg High School.

During his 11 years at East Stroudsburg, Rev. Eaton has baptized approximately 1,500 children; married over 500 couples and officiated at funerals on an average of two each week. His efforts in community endeavors and his close association with his church, make him one of the outstanding leaders of the county.

Rally Day To Be Observed By East Stroudsburg Church

One of the great days in the busy season of Fall activities in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church is Rally Day. On this occasion each year through the concerted efforts of the Sunday school teachers and department heads of the church, an effort is made to contact all the members of the various classes and urge their presence for the Sunday school.

The Sunday school is functioning effectively with 533 present on Sept. 28 and 536 on October 5. The new time schedule with the meeting hour 9:45 a.m., has proved no disadvantage.

The morning worship at 11 will provide an unusual and distinctive expression of the total music program of the church. All four choirs are to march in procession at the beginning of the service. The altar choir, strengthened with a number of new voices under the direction of Ernest Michelfelder will lead. Following them will be the youth choir directed by Theodore Huan. The next group in the procession will be the chapel choir under the direction of Miss Marguerite Cramer; and last of all, the Cherubs—a choir which is composed of tiny folk in 1st and 2nd grades, of which the pastor and Miss Eleanor Decker are the directors.

Each of the youth choirs is backed by an organization of choir mothers. Mrs. Clifford Lambert is president of the youth choir mothers. In the chapel choir, Miss Cramer has organized four teams of mothers who serve on consecutive Sundays and share the responsibilities of entertainment, care of gowns, processional arrangement, etc. The Cherub choir mothers group is directed by Mrs. George Mosher.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning on the theme, "The Empty Throne," the kindergarten mothers for the morning worship will be Mrs. Robert Ford and Mrs. Clinton Boushell. The flowers for the altar vases are presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Staples and Homer Hafley, in memory of Mr. Kathryn Possinger, and Mrs. Homer Hafley. All four choirs will sing during the service.

In the service at 7:30 p.m., the male quartet of the church, composed of Dr. Donald Carson, Paul Bartholomew, Wilbur Reinhardt, and David Powell will sing two groups of selections. The brass trio, composed of Barry Lambert, Ernest Michelfelder Jr., and Robert Stenlake will play for the congregational singing. Guests of the night service will be the members of the order of the Eastern Star, which group is making its annual United Church visitation. The pastor will speak on a passage from the book of Esther, "For Such An Hour."

Dr. Wohlsten Lists Topics For Sermons

Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlsten, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, will preach at both services tomorrow. At 11 a.m. he will speak on "Our Needed Law," while at the 7:30 p.m. service, he will present the first in a series of studies on the "I Am's of Jesus." Tomorrow night he will speak on the subject, "I Am the Light."

Special music will also be presented at both services. In the morning the Junior Choir will sing "Savior, Blessed Savior," while the Senior Choir will sing "Incline Thine Ear" with bass solo by G. Alvin Shook. At the 7:30 p.m. service the church choir will sing "We Praise Our God" under the direction of Robert H. Cathcart, organist and choir master.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller will have charge of the nursery for pre-school age children from 10:30 a.m. until the close of the service. George T. Robinson, C. S. Kitchen, J. A. Kitchen and James W. Hentjis will serve as ushers at the morning service while William Andress, Henry Buck, Edward Hardenstein and Olen Hagerty will serve at the 7:30 p.m. service.

The session of the Church School will be conducted at 9:45 a.m., with Edwin F. Buck, superintendent, in charge assisted by Russell W. Kern and Mrs. Floyd Fetherman.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet on Tuesday at 8 p.m. and the Altar Guild will hold a Halloween party on Wednesday at 8 p.m. Both will meet in the social rooms.

Wellards To Hold Series Of Services

A series of revival services will begin Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in First Pentecostal Assembly of God, Dr. and Mrs. David Wellard will conduct the services.

Dr. Wellard was born in Dundee, Scotland. Before his conversion, he was known as Dr. Wellard, the Midgitt illusionist, as he is less than 5 feet tall.

He was a member of the Dundee Society of Magicians, because of his ability to invent his own illusions.

He came to Winnipeg, Canada, where he was converted. He graduated from Rochester Bible Institute, has received degrees from the Southern School of Divinity, American Bible College and Temple Theological Seminary.

Dr. Wellard spent a number of years in pastoral and evangelistic work, has been Bible teacher in various summer camp meetings and spent ten years in Bible school and college work ranging from teacher to president.

He is the author of five Bible courses and co-author with Mrs. Wellard of four music courses with a combined enrollment of 6000 students. He is the author of seven other publications, and has prepared more than 16 sets of lectures covering most of the subjects taught in Bible Colleges. He is a Family Day will be observed at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church on Sunday. Many families will attend church 100 per cent and occupy the family pew. There will be a nursery for younger children and a junior service for the older children. The Sanctuary Choir of Juniors will sing "Gentle Jesus" under the direction of Robert Hawk. Three Choirs To Appear At Services

Tomorrow at the 11 a.m. worship hour of the First Presbyterian Church in Stroudsburg, Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, pastor, will deliver a sermon on "Shields of Brass." This theme will be developed from the written text of 11 Chronicles 12: 1 through 12.

This service will mark the first simultaneous appearance this season of the three vested choirs of the church. The Junior Choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Earl Willhoite, will join with the Westminster Choir, and Mrs. Ernest Farmer, to sing the opening In-Introit. The Senior Choir, under the leadership of Vernon Inbt, will render the anthem "Father Thy Children Bow in Adoration." The combined choirs number over 70 voices.

The Sacrament of Infant Baptism will be administered at this service to Paul Elliot Rasmussen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rasmussen of Columbia, N. J.

At 7:30 p.m. the senior choir will be on hand to assist in the hymn singing and to present the anthem "Once More the Twilight Glow." Mr. Campbell's sermon will be "The Parable of the Great Supper." Herbert Bellairs will lead the congregational hymn singing.

Grace Youth Group Plans Fall Season

The Lutheran Youth Fellowship of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, will begin its fall season of activity on Sunday at 6:30 p.m. in the Parish House chapel. Pastor Wunder will lead the devotional service. Marlin Martz, president, will conduct the planning of the youth program and activities. A special program will be featured with songs and recitations by the departmentalized school under the direction of Mrs. Florence Bush. Mrs. Margaret Beers and Mrs. Clara Miller.

At 11 a.m. Pastor Wunder will preach on the theme, "A Militant Christ," using the parable for the 18th Sunday after Trinity as the scriptural basis for his message. The altar flowers will be placed by Mr. and Mrs. Olaf J. Pedersen in memory of Mr. Pedersen's father, Olaf S. Pedersen. The bulletins will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Michaels in honor of their daughter's and son-in-law's fourth wedding anniversary. Doris Lorraine and George Henry Weitzman were married on October 15, 1948. Misses Ann Fleming and Mary Ann Bosman will conduct the nursery during the worship hour. Serving as ushers will be William Palmer Jr., Joseph T. Pierce, Martin Mery and Milton Mery. Miss Jane Lippe will sing a soprano solo, "Suffer The Little Children."

'Birth Of Fellowship' Sermon Topic

"The Birth of Fellowship" will be the theme of Pastor Frank W. Wingerter's sermon tomorrow morning. His discourse is to be built upon an answer of Christ to two of his disciples who requested an extraordinary favor.

The choir, under organist and choir director Walter Schlough, will sing, "Lord My God, In Thee I Trust" and "I Sought The Lord."

Mrs. Jack Wyckoff, of the Women's Auxiliary, will be in charge of the nursery during the hour of worship.

Sh-h-h-h! Baby's Asleep!

And it's a serene, peaceful, dreamless kind of sleep because she knows no fear. She is utterly content in your care and protection.

You anticipate all her needs. You feed and clothe her. You play with her. You nurse her when she's sick. Whether she laughs or cries, is good or naughty, you love her.

Just now you expect nothing in return. But as she grows older you will expect her to show her love for you by respecting your wishes and obeying your commands. When she is kind and thoughtful you will be happy.

You are a child of God, receiving such love from Him as you bestow on your own child. How long has it been since you showed your love for Him in return?

Visit with Him through prayer and daily Bible reading; and on Sunday worship Him in Church with real love in your heart.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Season Of Prophets

This is the season of the prophets, not only of those who will tell you just what is going to happen at the election on November 4, or of the manner in which the leading football teams of the nation will finish the season, but more particularly about the weather awaiting us this winter.

We refer, of course, not to the skilled technicians who labor in the United States Weather Bureau offices. No, we speak today of those other, less scientific prophets of what lies ahead in the way of weather, the men and women who are loosely identified as "goosebone" prophets. This is a careless way to refer to them, however, for their manner of reading the signs varies tremendously from county to county, and from state to state.

Here in Pennsylvania, for example, we have some men who declare that the worms they have seen recently are black all over, and that means there should be an immediate revival of the long woolies from their bed of mothballs, for the winter will be long and cold.

But comes another equally certain prophet who says not so, the only worms in sight are the brown, wooly ones and that gives evidence of a mild winter.

We are holding back our own forecast until we see our particular prophet, far back in the wilds of Monroe county. Only then will we come forth with what, we assure you, can be considered the last word on the subject.

Hymn of Hate

The Russians, as usual, are talking out of both sides of their mouth. Georgi Malenkov, heir-apparent to Joe Stalin's seat of power, opened the 19th Soviet Communist Party Congress with the charge that the United States is rushing the west toward a new world war.

In the next breath he informed his listeners, who included Stalin, that "no force in the world can halt our progress."

That's double talk, as only the Russians can speak that peculiar language. The "progress" of which Malenkov speaks is the wholesale absorption of weaker nations; the rape of Czechoslovakia; the Poland grab; the worthless promises of cooperation with the West; the Korean war; the infiltration of Communist spies and traitors into every facet of our society, and the bombardment of all countries with a hate America campaign, the intensity of which has never been reached before.

Malenkov talks of Russia's "high aims," how it is possible for a "peaceful co-existence between capitalism and communism." But the acts of the Communists give the lie to everything that Malenkov utters.

It is hardly in the nature of a nation seeking an avenue of peace to close its doors to our ambassador, George Kennan, whose withdrawal has been demanded by Moscow. The pretext for his withdrawal is ludicrous. Kennan remarked recently that diplomats accredited to the Soviet Union are completely cut off from contact with the population. The remark was true. Secondly, Kennan's remarks are flattering compared to slanders spread by Russian diplomats against the United States. They have called us gangsters, butchers, and every slanderous name they could lay their tongues to.

If Russia really wanted peace, as Malenkov and all the other Stalin puppets claim, they could have it. For God knows, America and the West don't hate Russia. They do hate war.

THE TARIFF AGAIN

One of the subjects not discussed by either party in the present campaign is the tariff, which is regarded as an old-fashioned item more suitable to the era of William McKinley. Nevertheless, the question of flooding the United States with European and Asiatic goods, produced by cheap labor, subsidized by governments, and salable at lower non-competitive prices in this market, must be considered.

Ambassador William H. Draper, Jr., the United States Special Representative in Europe, in his semi-annual report, raised the issue of the tariff as one that Europe cannot ignore. He said:

"Western Europe must steadily become more productive, and produce at more competitive prices. European producers need within Europe a market that is both wide, and deeper, in which the spur of competition and new opportunities would yield major gains in higher productivity and lower prices. Existing trade restrictions and cartel arrangements fail to stimulate either mass production or mass selling."

He said that the United States must face hard facts. The question that confronts us is whether we should continue to dump capital and goods into Europe, or continue subsidies to European governments, or buy more goods in Europe for sale in the United States. Shall we admit more British chinaware, more Swiss watches, more French and Italian cloths, all in competition with our own?

One of our domestic problems is total employment. It is the intention of the American people that never again are we to witness from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 unemployed. This enormity in our economy continued from 1930 to about 1940 and was terminated by war. Full employment was achieved during the war period; after 1945, it was continued by the Marshall Plan, by European military aid and by the Korean War.

The question naturally arises whether those who govern us have no other solution for our domestic problem of full employment than war or the preparation for war. While it is true that we have prospered under those conditions, it is equally and more emphatically true that we have lost lives and wealth and burdened ourselves with high taxes and with a national debt. It is unbelievable that our economy must be dependent upon war conditions for stability, just as it is unbelievable that this country must remain in a state of permanent war.

Ambassador Draper's proposal is:

"... Among other methods to this end, I would suggest reaffirmation and extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements program, enactment of the proposed legislation for simplified customs procedures, and the progressive lowering of other import restrictions and duties. Such a policy would increase Europe's capacity to pay without correspondingly reducing our exports. I believe adoption of this policy would directly benefit the United States by increasing its economic and eventually its military security."

This is an excellent program for Europe, but what would it do to the wage scale in the United States? What would it do to the smaller American industries which could not compete with European goods produced at low wages and subsidized by government bounties?

These questions cannot be answered "Yes" or "No." It is not that simple. For instance, in Mark Hanna's time, American industry was united in support of a high tariff. That is not so today. Many elements in American industry, particularly big industry, favor interventionist activities in Europe because it is good business, providing for large productivity and full employment. It makes the government the principal customer of these heavy industries.

Shall industrialists, particularly those engaged in the manufacture of consumers' goods, fear present tendencies as likely to squeeze them out of business altogether? They note the reconstruction and modernization of European industries with American money or counterpart funds as imperiling their future if American markets are to be flooded with European-made consumers' goods. The chinaware and watch industries have already suffered from this type of competition.

Across this discussion runs the political problem of the support of our allies so that they can defend themselves against Soviet Russia. In all European countries a neutralist position has developed, designed to free those countries from their responsibilities and obligations to the United States. Aneurin Bevan is typical of the European politician who supports a neutralist position. Stalin believes that he can break up the North Atlantic Alliance because of these issues.

Try And Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

In Cleveland, writes John S. Flannigan, a gentleman named Frederick E. Gymer has assembled a unique collection of business mottoes. Tiring of clichés like "Do It Now," "Think!", "This Is My Busy Day," and "Keep Smiling," Gymer went searching for rarer gems, and came up with a bag that at least has a fresher tang. Samples: "Whoever Finds Work a Pleasure Can Certainly Have a Whale of a Time in This Organization," "Somebody Said It Couldn't Be Done—So He Fleck With It," "A Halo Has Only to Fall Eleven Inches to Become a Noose," and "Feeling Important? Take a Walk Through the Cemetery." Those Guys Were Big Shots, Too.

Gymer began his collection as a pastime, but received so many requests for copies he's formed a "Let's Have Better Mottoes" association.

—by H. I. Phillips

... No base runner, called out on a close one, rushed to the ump's with a loud, "This links you with McCarthy and Jenner. You are the kind of man who would cut social security and wipe out old-age pensions." ... At no time did a ballplayer in a desperate situation appeal to the fans with "No matter what the setup is now, ask yourself 'Am I better off than I was last year?'"

The outcome of the torrid series was a disappointment to thousands of people but up to press time no Republican had accused the Democrats of being irresponsible and not even President Truman had rushed to the train platform to tell the people, "That's what you get when you are ungrateful for what I have done for you!"

We think the country a little saddened by "The Bums" defeat. It is the American instinct to favor the underdog, champion the lost cause, cheer David and believe always in the Frank Merriwell tradition. Brooklyn made a gallant hair-raising fight of it all the way even if there always lingered the impression that in playing the Yanks they were messing with a leg of dynamite bound to blow up in their faces ultimately. Somehow you always felt that Brooklyn needed not only a miracle but more ability to meet it halfway. "The Bums" were great, but the Yanks were riding with Arcaro in the saddle. We were rooting for the Dodgers, but we knew it would be a good idea to pray for them, too.

A lot of sentimental fans thought the Yanks had been in longer than the Democrats and should have been tossed out for the same simple reason that enough is enough, no matter what party you belong to or how good you are with a bat. We admire Johnny Mize but felt in each game that he had served two four-year terms and that they were plenty. But we were always apprehensive, and believed that Old Casey Stengel was doing a strip tease, seeming to lose his shirt and imperil his pants, only to bob up as the best-dressed man. Well, it was all done in the Hollywood thriller manner and was such a wonderful World Series that Hollywood would have called it "See Of World Series." The better team won, but if it had been played on a race track it would have called for a photo.

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—It's a little early, but I've just made a New Year's resolution. It's never to write—or read, if I can help it—any of the cliché "angles" or "stories" that pop up in connection with some stars.

You won't read here, for example, of the efforts of youthful-looking Mona Freeman to get grown-up roles. George Sanders' latest caustic comments on women probably will have to be found elsewhere. The same goes for the moment's prospects for an Aly-Rita reconciliation.

The subject of Mickey Rooney and tall girls isn't likely to excite me. Neither are Lana's heartaches, Lana's temperament, and even (I especially regret to say) Lana's armpits.

If at all possible, I shall not refer to Clark Gable as "The King," Orson Welles as "genius," and Dietrich, Swanson, and Bennett as "glamorous grandmothers." Barbara Hale may be just like the girl next door, but I shan't remind you of it.

The Olivia de Havilland-Jean Fontaine feud will have to become real news before I pay it any mind. So will the happy home life of Betty Grable and Harry James and the ditto of Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis. The accents of Zsa Zsa Gabor, S. Z. Sakall, and Sam Goldwyn aren't likely to provide me with much copy.

Any divorced star who tells me, "We're still the best of friends," automatically writes herself out of this space. Anybody's quote to the effect that "Hollywood is just like any other small town" will be so much newspaper saved.

Scripture—Matthew 5

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

If you cannot go to attend the church service, take time to read the fifth chapter of Matthew, and

We call the Sermon on the Mount the Beatitudes. The word beatitude comes from the Latin word beatus, meaning happy, from a Latin verb meaning to bliss.

Happiness is a condition of man not something bestowed upon him. He may be poor or he may be wealthy in the eyes of the world, but if his spirit is poor—not "puffed up," but humble and grateful, he will be happy, or blissed.

"Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted."

Have you ever seen a friend as overcome with grief after a bereavement that he or she could think of no one but themselves and would not be comforted? It is a sad spectacle, and strains the ties of friendship to the limit.

However, in time, even in this type of self-interest and selfish sorrow, the victim is comforted

Challenging Address On 'Spotlighting Youth' Given At Gathering Of Teachers

Under the banner "Spotlighting Youth," the Northeastern District of the Pennsylvania State Education Association held its one-day annual convention yesterday at State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg.

The principal theme of the 28th annual convention was summed up during the morning session by Dr. Lester H. Clee, president of the New Jersey Civil Service Commission when he told the assembled teachers:

"He who dares to teach, must never cease to learn."

Clee's major address set the keynote for the entire day, with subsequent talks and conferences built around the needs and requirements of modern youth in education.

Dr. Clee listed four things which the young people in today's school "ask that we (educators) have."

The first of these, he said, is "minds big enough to include the whole world" leading to the exclusion of prejudices.

Second on the list is "a sense of moral fitness that compels you (the teacher) regardless of cost, to stand for what is right and speak what you believe."

A third requirement of modern youth, the speaker continued, is "recognition of the urge that is within us never to be satisfied with things as they are, but always insist and hope for continued improvement."

The fourth and final necessity in teachers of today, Dr. Clee said, is "a belief in tomorrow."

This idealism, essential to the teacher, should permit the educator to say to the child: "Follow me, I know the way—I've been there."

The PSEA convention opened yesterday morning with a concert by the East Stroudsburg High School band under the direction of Clement Wiedmeyer with John Eaton acting as student conductor for one number.

Following the group singing of "America," led by Numa Snyder, vocal music instructor at Stroudsburg High School and Miss Betjejo Goodall, vocal music instructor at East Stroudsburg, Rev. Harold C. Eaton delivered the opening invocation.

District PSEA President Austin Snyder introduced Past Presidents Thomas L. Hinkle, Miss Ruth Krapf, Thomas Francis, Robert Wilson and secretary Esther Saxe.

Dr. Theodore Moore, substituting for President Joseph F. Noonan, delivered an address of welcome to the delegates on behalf of the State Teachers College. President Snyder then thanked Dr. Nathan G. Meyer of the college for coordinating the efforts of the Future Teachers of America during the convention.

A. Clair Moser, assistant Executive Secretary of PSEA headquarters in Harrisburg, in a brief address, noted that this year marked the 100th anniversary of the State organization.

Reviewing the history of the group, Moser said: "The problems of education in Pennsylvania have never been and never will be settled."

"Through our united efforts," he

Progressive Woman's Club Launches New Projects; See Food Demonstration

Saylorsburg—The Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg held their first meeting of the year, Wednesday night at Chestnut Hill auditorium. The 75 members were greeted by the president, Mrs. Marvin Krome.

Mrs. Alton Albright led in prayer. Mrs. Theodore Thompson read the minutes of the last meeting, as well as of the executive board meetings, and several written communications which required immediate attention.

The club decided to contribute $15 to the Community Chest. Mrs. Warren Gursky read a letter to Mrs. Lloyd Altomero, had written urging all to get out and vote and return their slips, bring it to the following Women's Club meeting with her name on, to be eligible for a prize.

Mrs. Thomas Pomeroy is planning to organize a Brownie group, sponsored by the club, this week. Mrs. David Weaver was called on for the highlights of the country meeting which was held in September at "Green Acres."

William Kresge, vice warden of Chestnut Hill section, asked for volunteers as sponsors for this territory. All names are to be handed to Mrs. Kresge. Mrs. Krome thanked the sponsors of the year book: Henry C. Hoffman, Claude A. Radenbach and Kresge Funeral Home.

The following new members were received into the club: Mrs. Robert Altomero, Mrs. Angela Vinsella and Mrs. Jeanne Stulgaitis.

The American Home department, which consists of Mrs. Arthur Krome, Mrs. Stanley Bonser, Mrs. Alton Albright, Mrs. James Gould, Mrs. Franklin Christian and Mrs. Gordon Shupp were in charge of the program. Foster Rough of the PP&L, was introduced by Mrs. George Halber. With the assistance of Mrs. Marie Quinn, supervisor, and Miss Louise Mahoney, a demonstration of the preparation and preserving of food was presented. Mrs. Alton Albright won a special first prize. Controlling and baking dishes went to Mrs. Sydney DeLoe, Mrs. Henry C. Hoffman, Mrs. Edith Miller, Julian C. Kresge, Mrs. Homer Shupp, Mrs. Ann Altomero, Mrs. Lefay Shupp, Mrs. Alice A. Mill.

Food containers in which it was prepared to Mrs. Harley Bond, Mrs. Margaret Phillips, Mrs. Myrtle Radenbach, Mrs. Frank Christian, Mrs. Andrew Schaffer, Mrs. Carl C. Kresge and Mrs. Weston Turner Jr.

The auditorium and the cafeteria, in which refreshments were served, were decorated in autumn leaves, and Halloween decorations.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Franklin Christian, Mrs. William Kresge, Mrs. Mito Doney, Mrs. Marjane Everett, Miss Clara Kestring, Mrs. Lloyd Mackles, Mrs. Stanley Bonser, Mrs. Mark Kestring, Mrs. Lefay Hinton, Mrs. Edward Doney, Miss Irene Pysher, Mrs. Franklin Delbert, Mrs. Warren Gursky, Mrs. Marvin Krome, Mrs. John Mills, Mrs. Julian Kresge, Mrs. Arthur Krome, Mrs. Alton Albright, Mrs. George Doid and Mrs. Dewey Schaffer.

The November meeting will be held at the fire hall in Saylorsburg. Youth Conservation committee including Mrs. George Metzger, Mrs. Myron Snyder, Miss Clara Kestring, Mrs. Ted May, Mrs. Thomas Blum and Miss Edith Young, and the Welfare and Health Department, consisting of Mrs. Lloyd Mackles, Mrs. William Gould, Mrs. Nathan Kunkle, Mrs. Wesley Shaffer, Mrs. Ann Altomero and Mrs. Lefay Shupp, are in charge of the program.

Refreshments will be Mrs. Frank Scher, Mrs. Anna Serfas, Mrs. Myrtle Haul, Mrs. Philip Sabatino, Mrs. Clarence Gudge, Mrs. Ed. Serfas, Mrs. Gertrude Fry, Mrs. William Flick, Mrs. Grant Kresge, Mrs. J. E. Serfas, Miss Edith Young, Mrs. George Metzger Jr., Mrs. Helen Boyer, Mrs. Mildred Fritz, Mrs. Lydia Howeler, Mrs. Ida Kunkle and Mrs. Jeanne Stulgaitis.

On there are plenty of holidays coming up, Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years, but a gift for no special reason that requires no special preparation, no special decorations, and nothing you ought to do, seems a highly pleasurable thing.

However, there is also a certain pleasure in accomplishment, too, for which reason all these women's clubs should be happy at the running start they've had on the year's projects. They've given to the Community Chest, had fashion shows, started new Brownie troops, signed up for warden duty, learned how to instruct in the use of the voting machine, and launched half a dozen other worthy projects.

The only thing is we all get so busy and so involved that we overlook the present chances for pleasure. While you're busy with a committee meeting, the leaves are falling with a dry whisper that warns of coming grey days and grey landscapes.

You can't turn your eyes away from the maple on the lawn, even long enough to dry the dishes, without having just a bit of its glory fade. While you stand looking at the berries on the dogwood, the rich red velvet of the leaves around it turns slightly dusky.

Let's do the ironing by lamplight, and just look our fill by day.

Everything is clip and tuck in Teen-Age fashions this fall, and the LATEST clip is of metal that hugs the head securely from inside the brim of a baby bonnet of angora. These gloriously young caps come in pink, aqua, white, and yellow at $3.98. Kitten soft, they'll make any Pretty Pass perfectly adorable! ... My friends are ribbing me, asking why I'm taking a brief case to work these days. Could be that after losing a few papers and causing myself some extra work, it occurred to me that such a case is not an expense but an economy—particularly if you invest in a good one that will wear forever. Ruth Widmer advised me to purchase a Reebell, of course, and Baron Reinhardt did his bit by stamping it with my name in gold. A nice thought for Christmas giving, by the way! This very official case is the nearest I've ever come to that career in criminal law I fancied at sixteen! ... Edna Brockman is up to her neck in travel folders these days, as she clears her desk in preparation for her vacation. Edna leaves with her husband, George, also of the store family, next Wednesday for two weeks in Florida. There she'll attend the convention of the American Society of Travel Agents in Miami. Her plan is to motor, and stop at interesting places en route, taking notes for future references when YOU plan your winter vacation. ... Did you ever wonder how you look sleeping? I remember, as a youngster trying to figure some way I could see myself with my eyes closed. After one look at the new ski-jams by Schrank in our lingerie department, a lot of women will be staying awake nights trying to solve the same problem. ... After all, who doesn't want to see herself when she's at her glamorous best? These sets of self flannel have solid color, trousers and top of Tyrolean style, prettily designed, with nipped in waist. At $5.98, these are made additionally "outdoorable" with a tasseled cap, which sells extra at 85c. This is one night cap even temperance ladies will love! ... Walked down through the gift department and saw CANES. Walked into the men's department and saw CANES. Maybe that's all I need these days of in-between weather, when temperatures vary from high to low and busy days leave me limp. If you feel also that you are on your last legs, so to speak, why not buy a cane—and be able? All hardwood and metal tipped, they're good looking and sturdy. And only 50c. ... When you're in the store today, don't forget the costumes the children will need for their Halloween parties at school. As our ad puts it, "we have everything you could wish for" to lift your spirits higher than the harvest moon!

BIE Dinner Reservations Close Monday

Businessmen, industrialists and teachers who wish to attend the annual "Business-Industry-Education Day" banquet Tuesday night at the Inn at Buck Hill Falls were warned yesterday that "all reservations must be in not later than noon Monday."

In charge of taking reservations for the dinner are four town-borough education officials: Stroudsburg—Monroe County Superintendent John C. Litts and Stroudsburg Superintendent Earl Groner; East Stroudsburg—Superintendent Principal of Schools Carl T. Sevor and High School Principal Ralph O. Burrows.

Groner, in announcing yesterday the deadline for reservations, emphasized that the group must notify the inn not later than Monday noon of the number of persons expected at the banquet.

In order that the management of the banquet may proceed in orderly fashion, Groner requested that all persons who contemplate attending the banquet and have not already made their reservations do so as soon as possible.

The annual dinner, which will climax a full-day observance of the roles played by business, education and industry in community life, is expected to draw a crowd of 275 persons or more.

As a part of BIE Day, Monroe County schools have issued invitations to all businessmen and industrialists to visit the schools during Tuesday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

School officials have prepared a series of entertaining and informative guided tours for their visitors, in repayment for a similar "open house" affair sponsored last year by the businessmen, during which time the educators and school board members visited local businesses and industries.

Reservations for Tuesday night's banquet may be made by contacting any of the four men named in this article.

Pfc. Larison's Unit Receives Combat Honor

Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Larison, 127 Elizabeth St., East Stroudsburg, are in receipt of a letter telling them of the honor awarded the 32nd Infantry, Seventh Division, with which their son, Harold D. Jr., is affiliated in Company I, for fighting in Korea. The young man is now at Pusan, having been sent back to rest.

The award was noted in special order 220, dated Sept. 20, 1952, as follows: "This regiment is awarded combat infantry badge for satisfactory performance of duty in ground combat against the enemy, effective 19 July, '52."

Pfc. Larison was in three of the most bitter combats, at Heartbreak Ridge, Iron Triangle and Chonwon, Korea.

The East Stroudsburg soldier, who is married to the former Kathryn Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Phillips, has seen plenty of military duty. He served in the 88th U.S. Division in Italy in World War Two and in December will have served two years in the present war.

On entering his latest stretch of service he drilled troops at Ft. Knox, Ky., and was later identified with the Headquarters Co. at Indianapolis Gap, prior to being sent to Japan in May of this year.

Student Council Members To Serve As BIE Ushers

The East Stroudsburg High School Student Council continued its preparation this week for "Business-Industry-Education Day."

Members of the council will serve as ushers during the day Tuesday, Oct. 14 when businessmen and other residents of the community will visit the school.

The council is also preparing its plans for supervision of the noon-time lunch program at the school.

Acceptance of Community Chest pledges and cash contributions was also undertaken by the council for the first time this year in the school.

Incomplete returns indicate that the Chest solicitation has been more successful under council direction.

Air Raid Test Set For 1:50 On Wednesday

Next Wednesday's test air raid alert will begin precisely at 1:50 p. m. Civil Defense officials emphasized last night, sirens, horns and whistles will blow the "red alert" or public warning signal, throughout all sections of Pennsylvania at the same time.

Here is what you will be expected to do when the sirens wait: If you are driving your car, pull to the side and stop. In stopping, be sure to leave at least one lane open for emergency traffic.

If you are on the sidewalk, or out in the yard, go inside.

If you are inside, stay there and turn on your radio.

All Pennsylvania radio stations have been asked to broadcast a special 15-minute program between 1:45 and 2 p. m. on Wednesday. The transmission will include not only individual air raid warning instructions, but also a properly-timed "red alert" for those who may not hear the public warning systems.

The general aim of the test will be to bring all non-essential activities to a halt and have the public "take cover" during a three-minute period.

Governor Fine has urged all Pennsylvanians — and all people visiting Pennsylvania — to join in the test, which he has dubbed, "our first statewide class in personal survival."

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

If Bushkill takes the measure of Kunkletown tomorrow and everything goes well in future years, the second game in the final Pocono Mountains League playoff round may be the last amateur contest that Ray Steele will ever pitch in this area. Bushkill defeated Kunkletown last Sunday, in the first game of the series, and a victory tomorrow would wrap up baseball in Monroe and Pike counties for the remainder of the year. Steele will certainly be on the firing line to face Kunkletown, the power-packed regular season title holder.

Steele, now a student at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, signed recently with the Philadelphia A's and will report to Ottawa, of the International League, for spring training. Ray will become a professional, as far as the Pocono Mountains League is concerned, the minute he begins receiving a bonus from the A's which according to reports will be coming in January of the coming year. So, tomorrow may find Steele drawing down the curtain on an outstanding amateur career in this area, providing his Bushkill mates can take the measure of Kunkletown, the latter owning two straight pennants and the 1951 playoff title.

The Pocono Mountains Little League will feature an outstanding banquet at the Pocono Crest Hotel on Monday, with Gene Woodling, hard hitting left fielder for the New York Yankees, the chief speaker on the agenda. The choice of Woodling, in this writer's mind, is particularly good for an occasion of the type being held at the local resort. Gene failed to stick with the Cleveland Indians and Pittsburgh Pirates in earlier trials in the major leagues, but displayed plenty of intestinal fortitude as he fought his way back to the position of one of the most highly regarded members of the world championship diamond organization.

In addition, Woodling gave a demonstration as to the type of man he is, when he turned over many of his gifts and all cash presents, the result of a recent "day" in his honor, to Little League baseball in Fair-haven, N. J., his home town. The 30-year-old fly-basher is one of the most popular of the Yankees, both on and off the field, and has done plenty of good work with the younger generation. Jack Murphy, scout for the A's, and John Lindermuth, assistant commissioner of Little League baseball, are also scheduled to speak at the banquet.

Tickets, costing $2.50 apiece, are still available for the Pocono Crest banquet, which is expected to attract a very large crowd. The tickets may be purchased from members of the Pocono Lions club, Barrett Rotary, Barrett Lions and Mt. Pocono Rotary, the four service clubs that made the Pocono Mountains Little League possible. The banquet will certainly be the largest one ever given in honor of Little League teams in this area. Members of the various teams will be guests at the banquet, with turkey listed as the main course.

Football stock has reportedly taken a rapid rise in Bangor, since the announcement was made that Rodney Miller, ace back who broke an ankle prior to the first game, would return to the States' lineup in something like two weeks. If Miller can run, twist and turn with anything like his old ability, his presence in the Bangor lineup will make the States' very tough during the last few games of the campaign.

Capt. Ray Davies, currently stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., is scheduled to be retired from the army in the near future. Ray would like very much to return to his coaching profession or open a business of his own. Ray was an outstanding baseball and basketball star at Tobyhanna Township High School; was named to the All-American squad while playing soccer at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and then coached both basketball and baseball at Coalbough High, before being recalled to army duty.

T Manning "Cap" Curtis, athletic director at Stroudsburg High School, will take time out from his driving lessons long enough to serve as toastmaster for the Pocono Mountains Little League banquet on Monday. Jack Moloney, press agent for the Boston Red Sox, stopped off in East Stroudsburg this week to visit with Russell Walton, a member of the police force, with whom he formerly played baseball in the Navy. Moloney managed the Navy team at Key West, during World War I, to the Atlantic Fleet championship. Russ, a spit-baller, divided his time between the pitching mound and first base while in the Navy.

Later Russ reportedly played in the Eastern League and then received a trial with the Boston Red Sox, on Moloney's recommendation, before becoming an officer of the law. Moloney, former sports editor of the Boston Post, also stopped in Phillipsburg, N. J., to visit Charley Gelbert,

Merrin Scores On First Play Of Encounter

Lehighon — East Stroudsburg High rolled to its fourth straight victory of the season last night with a convincing 46-0 decision over Lehighon, here on the losing contingent's home field. However, the victory may have been costly for the Cavaliers, as Paul "Candy" Miller, first string quarterback, suffered a neck and shoulder injury early in the third period.

Dick Merrin, in a hurry to protect East Stroudsburg's undefeated record, ran 63 yards on the first play of the game from scrimmage.

mage to give the visiting contingent a 6-0 edge. The fancy stepping Eastburg back broke off tackle and with good blocking had no trouble going the entire distance. Bill "Bucky" Rodgers missed converting the extra point.

The Cavaliers came right back and Merrin again did the damage, running 27 yards into paydirt this time. Rodgers added the extra point to put the purple and white clad contingent out in front, 13-0. However, only a matter of minutes went by before George Little cracked, evaded the double chain mark from the four-yard line, to give Eastburg a 19-0 lead at the end of the first quarter, as the attempt at the extra point met with failure.

East Stroudsburg's third touchdown was set up on a pass from Miller to Little that covered 15 yards.

There was no scoring in the second quarter as each team substituted freely.

East Stroudsburg resumed its scoring tactics in the third period, as Jim Kintz streaked 27 yards for the initial touchdown of the period, while Merrin came back with a 24-yard gallop for the quarter's second six-point. Rodgers missed the extra point after Kintz's touchdown, but booted the ball squarely between the uprights after Merrin scored. The Cavaliers led at this point, 32-0.

Joe Chase, who took over the quarterback duties for Miller, went over on a quarterback sneak from the four yard line early in the final period, while a pass from Chase to Jim Fritz, covering three yards, was responsible for the final six-point. Rodgers converted after both the sixth and seventh scores.

Touchdown runs of 50 and 20 yards by Kintz were called back because of penalties, or the Cavaliers would have inflicted more damage.

Both clubs used every player on their benches, East Stroudsburg accounting for 34 and Lehighon 38.

Araujo Stops Brown In Seven

New York (AP) — One flashing left hook to the jaw by George Araujo knocked out Joe Brown of New Orleans in 1:24 of the seventh round of a nationally telecast ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

Araujo, a seven to five underdog, weighing 132½ to Brown's 134½.

The sudden finish to what had been a dull fight, brought the crowd of 2,099 (gross take $4,402) to its feet.

Araujo, a 21-year-old lightweight contender from Providence, made time a lightning turn near the ropes and shot a short right to his 26-year-old rival's jaw.

Brown fell over the middle rope and then sagged to the floor,

Woodling To Speak At Little League Banquet

Four Games Top National Football Slate

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.
New York (AP) — Three games that have everything and one that will have everybody make up the big four of college football today for the season's first Saturday when football will draw undivided attention.

The three that combine tradition, red hot rivalries and mighty teams are Princeton vs. Penn in the east's Ivy League, Maryland vs. Georgia in the south and Oklahoma vs. Texas in the southwest. The other is the weekly "television game" between Michigan State and Texas A. and M. at East Lansing, Mich., which will be watched by countless fans who can't go to either games, and probably by many who could.

Important
These four aren't the only games of major importance. From east to west there are such others as William and Mary-Navy; Wake Forest-Villanova; Tulane-Georgia Tech; Wisconsin-Ohio State; Pittsburgh-Notre Dame; Baylor-Arkansas and Oregon State-Stanford which might easily fit into the "everything" category.

In the Ivy League, where football again has become a by-product of academic progress, Penn and Princeton are the only teams strong enough to break into the headlines nationally. Princeton, boasting a 24-game winning streak, was ranked tenth in the nation in the Associated Press poll this week. Penn only drew passing mention, but in trying to pick the winner, the experts had to settle for a tossup.

Princeton, according to rival scouts, is the only Ivy team that really can "move" on offense. But Penn, with two slam-bang fullbacks, Joe Varaitis and Don Zimmerman, contesting for the number one spot, plus "Bones" Adams, Bill Deuber and Walt Ilyoski, could break loose any time. And the Quakers have a big offensive line and a strong defense unit to back it up. Princeton may have to weaken its attack to build up its defensive platoon.

Texas and Oklahoma haven't lived up to their pre-season ratings yet. Texas dropped a tough one to Notre Dame, and Oklahoma was tied by Colorado. But they have a pair of potent teams and the oldest inhabitant of those parts can hardly remember when their meetings failed to produce a rugged, exciting game.

In a rivalry that dates only from the 1948 Gator Bowl game, Georgia an impressive winner of three games, figures to give fourth-ranked Maryland a real tussle in a duel between two exceptional passers, Maryland's Jack Seabath and Zeke Bratkowski of Georgia.

Michigan State, rated number one in the pre-season polls, dropped behind Wisconsin this week after barely squeaking past Michigan and Oregon State. Texas A. and M. doesn't figure to be as strong as those two, but should provide enough action for the televisioners.

Top Ranking
Defending its top ranking and a share of the Big Ten lead, Wisconsin plays rugged Ohio State at Columbus while challenging Purdue takes on Iowa.

Other teams of special interest send California, the number three team in the weekly ratings, against a possible toughie, Tulane; Duke, number six, against South Carolina and Kansas, number nine, against Iowa State.

Although they don't involve top teams, Cornell-Syracuse; Dartmouth - Army; Columbia - Yale; Clemson-Fordham.

The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 2 p.m.

Martz, a product of East Stroudsburg High school, suffered a slight fracture of the jaw in a physical education class this week, and as of last night the hard running back was declared out of today's lineup. However, a final verdict on Martz will be made sometime this morning.

Art Schaefer, another highly regarded back, is definitely out of the lineup with a bad knee.

Pocono Pines—Gene Woodling, hard hitting left fielder for the New York Yankees, will be the featured speaker at Monday's Pocono Mountains Little League banquet to be held here at the Pocono Crest Hotel. The banquet is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Miller Suffers Neck Injury

Paul "Candy" Miller, quarterback and field general of the East Stroudsburg High School grid machine, suffered what may be a severe neck and shoulder injury early in the third quarter of last night's game with Lehighon, won by the Cavaliers, 46-0.

Reports from the Monroe County General Hospital late last night indicated that the injuries could be serious, although there was some hope that the damage may be only in the muscles.

Final examination of the X-ray plates will take place this morning.

It was feared last night that Miller, the team's ace passer, may have suffered a broken collar bone or clavicle, the latter a medical term for collarbone. Miller suffered extreme pain in his neck and around the left shoulder.

Bangor To Battle At Wilson Foe

Bangor — Bangor High completed preparations yesterday for today's battle with a strong Wilson Borough contingent, on the latter's home field. The game is scheduled to get underway promptly at 2 p.m.

Not Playing
Wilson Borough, regarded by many as the team to beat for the Lehigh-Northampton League title this year, has bowed over two league foes.

The Slaters will go into today's game as expected, without the services of Bob LaPenna, an end, and Rocco Cinelli, a tackle, because of injuries.

Coach Granville Evans announced last night that he would start the same team on Saturday that faced East Stroudsburg last week. This means Joe D'Imperio and Joe Heard will man the end posts, while Ralph Stenlake and Tom Williams handle the tackle berths, with Nick Castellucci and either Danny Pullo or Joe Yannuzzi at the guard posts. Jim Rowlands will again take care of the center duties.

The quarterback job will be handled by George Dallesandro. Jack Finelli and Tony Falcone will operate in the halfback slots, while Mike DeVito runs out of fullback.

Irish Blast Policy Of NCAA

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — The University of Notre Dame, already critical of the NCAA limited football television program, expressed even stronger opposition yesterday to a proposal to share the TV proceeds among more than 300 NCAA members.

"This share-the-wealth idea is socialist, illegal, immoral and un-American," asserted Edward "Mouse" Krause, Notre Dame director of athletics.

Threat

"It threatens the entire future of the NCAA and might well cause the death of the association."

Stroudsburg At Pen Argyl

Mountaineers Hope To End Losing Habit

Stroudsburg High school will feature a new lineup and reportedly a new outlook on football today, when the Mountaineers invade the home domain of Pen Argyl, in search of the third victory in five outings thus far this season. The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 2 p.m.

The Mountaineers opened the campaign with victories over Lehigh Valley and Lehigh, but went down to defeat at the hands of Emmaus and Palmerton, without scoring a point.

However, Coach Jerry Stulgaitis has made several changes in his starting eleven and spirit displayed this week indicates that the team is ready to break into the win column once again, although Pen Argyl will present tough opposition.

Stroudsburg's backfield will feature Karl Weingartner at quarterback; Don Garavito, left half, and either Bill Metzger or Jack Whittle, right half, while Bill Bailey runs out of his usual fullback position.

Carl Haggerty and Tom Berger will see plenty of work in the line on defense, while Elmer Strong and Whittle will fill the bill as line backers.

Pen Argyl has divided a pair of starts thus far this season, bowing to East Stroudsburg, 19-0, and then taking the measure of Catawagus last weekend, 25-13.

The green and white suited Pen Argyl crew will be out to inflict the third straight defeat on the Mountaineers, when the two arch rivals clash at Weona Park, before an expected capacity crowd.

Claude Miller, Pen Argyl's fast moving left halfback, will be in action today, but was unable to practice during the past week because of a hand injury.

Stroudsburg isn't scheduled for action next Saturday, enjoying an open date. However, the Mountaineers return to action the following week, battling Whitehall, on the latter's home field.

Indianapolis Departs From American Hockey League

Indianapolis (AP) — There will be no professional hockey club in Indianapolis this season.

Emory Jones, president of the American Hockey League, announced at St. Louis yesterday that the Indianapolis Capitals have withdrawn from the league for this season. Later Dick Miller, general manager of the Indianapolis club, confirmed the announcement. He emphasized it is for one season only.

Miller said Indianapolis "definitely not" would operate in any other league.

Privilege

Miller explained that he had merely exercised his privilege of suspending operations for a single season.

He said the decision to withdraw resulted from the National Hockey League's refusal to agree to a change in what Miller termed the "ruthless recall rule."

Under this rule, NHL clubs may recall on 24 hours' notice any player sent down to AHL clubs.

Jones, in announcing the withdrawal of Indianapolis, said the AHL would operate as a seven-club league—St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo, Hershey, Syracuse and Providence.

New Type Nose Guard Selected For All Stars

Morgantown, W. Va. (AP) — The West Virginia University Mountaineers are using a new type football noseguard this season. It is an arch-shaped transparent plastic band about two inches in width.

New York (AP) — Red Flotcher, captain and most valuable player for Illinois' Big Ten basketball champions last season, will play for Coach Frank McGuire and the College All-Stars.

Stroudsburg Council Approves Purchase Of New Fire Truck

Bids Sought On Pumper For Phoenix

Bids will be sought by Stroudsburg Council for a pumper engine fire truck, based on specifications provided by the Phoenix Company of the fire department.

Preliminary estimates indicated at a special council meeting last night that the equipment will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000.

Purchase of the new pumper is necessitated by the breakdown of a pumper purchased in 1941—during the war period, which has been inefficient and marked by repeated breakdowns since that time, despite a couple of trips back to the factory.

Most recent breakdown at the Ann St. fire a few weeks ago, left the borough in a serious position for fire pumper strength.

The new pumper will be capable of delivering 1,000 gallons of water a minute, giving the borough two 1,000-gallon pumpers and improving its rating for fire protection with the Board of Fire Underwriters.

Delivery, it was estimated by firemen who appeared before council last night with Bob Phillips as spokesman, can be expected in about four months after contract is let.

The 1941 truck will be revamped locally and utilized as a hose carrier. Estimated cost of this change is around $200.

Council awarded a contractor for comprehensive liability insurance to the American Casualty Co., Reading, Pa. to be divided between the agencies of C. H. Crowe Co., William N. Walton and G. Willard Stettin.

Purchased on a three years basis, the insurance premium will be $3,805.61. This bid was $585.69 lower than the next highest bidder.

than herself. Her younger sister is now a fourth grade pupil in the Chestnuthill schools.

Myrtle and her family have lived on "the same farm" all her life. She is quick to answer her love for the farm and the community in which she lives—including the school.

At 17 she is fond of sewing and making her own clothes, cooking and general housework. She hasn't decided yet what she'll do with the $500 prize—and she's not certain whether she's anxious for a college education.

Although she helps her mother with the housework, Miss Bonser is also a good hand with her father and the rest of the family on the farm near McMichael.

Like most girls born and raised on farms she has learned to help where help is needed.

Yesterday morning before the news came about the essay contest—Miss Bonser was busy husking corn in the fields.

Two years ago Patricia Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Miller, East Stroudsburg, won third prize in the State contest.

Sparkman Plans Trip Into Area

Harrisburg, Pa. — A seven-city itinerary was released yesterday for the Pennsylvania tour of Sen. John J. Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee, Oct. 15-17.

Democratic state headquarters said Sparkman will arrive by plane in Pittsburgh next Wednesday and leave by plane Friday morning for a noon reception in Williamsport, followed by an International Ladies Garment Workers Union rally-dinner in Wilkes-Barre that night.

HOW PENNSYLVANIA SCHOOLS ARE HELPING TO DEFEND FREEDOM

The biggest contribution that the schools of Pennsylvania are making to the cause of freedom lies in the manner in which the schools of Pennsylvania are conducted. Our schools are a free institution, democratically run in the greatest democracy on earth. Our schools teach freedom by allowing every pupil to enjoy absolute freedom of thought and speech in every school activity. Pupils in our schools learn to cherish freedom because they are allowed to live it, and as pupils live it, they learn its great value to mankind; and, knowing its great value to mankind, pupils are ever willing to give their all in defense of freedom.

Freedom stands in the doorway of every school in Pennsylvania. No class of people, regardless of race, creed or nationality, is ever barred. Every child is freely welcomed into the freedom of our schools, and every child is given equal instructional materials, equal instruction and the right to succeed to the full extent of his or her ability. Freedom is truly the keynote of every Pennsylvania school. A boy or girl who grows to adulthood in the democratic, free atmosphere of the schools of Pennsylvania is sure to hate tyranny or any form of suppression of the human will. Hating tyranny and suppression, such a person will ever stand willing to fight for the freedom he or she loves.

The schools of Pennsylvania are free of State control of instructional materials. We have no State adoption of certain textbooks. We do not even have county adoption of textbooks. Every school district in Pennsylvania is allowed to make its own selection of teaching materials in the light of that which it considers best. Naturally this is another type of freedom that is cherished by our pupils and it binds into the sum and total of our love for freedom and our great desire to maintain it.

This ties directly into the classroom of every school in Pennsylvania. Materials are of its own selection. Teachers interpret the teaching material as they see fit, and the boys and girls in turn are allowed to accept or reject this interpretation. Pupils are never told that they must accept any belief or philosophy. Pupils are given the right to disagree with the view of the purchased text as well as to disagree with the interpreted view of the teachers.

Then, too, pupils in the schools of Pennsylvania are given the right to democratically serve in every school function. No iron mitt governs their activities. No one dictates policies to be observed in this or that activity by this or that group. Regeneration of thought and action is unknown in our schools.

This, then, is my firm conviction. When one lives freedom, he learns to love it; and when one loves a thing, he is certain to defend it in his every thought and act of his day. That is why I say the biggest contribution the schools of Pennsylvania make to the cause of freedom is the freedom in which our schools allow pupils to live.

Italian Society To Mark 38th Anniversary During Banquet Sunday Afternoon

The 38th anniversary of the founding of the Italian Mutual Association of Monroe County will be marked Sunday at a banquet beginning at 1:30 p. m., in the organization's headquarters, Main St., Stroudsburg.

Organized in 1914, the association grew from a desire to maintain a society for beneficial and protective purposes. When the charter was acquired there were only three American citizens in the entire Italian population of Stroudsburg: Joseph Pesce, Samuel DeVivo and Rocco Campanaro. The first president was Pesce and the group formed with six directors and 21 members. One year later, however, the society dissolved.

In July, 1917, another group of Italian-Americans headed by Alexander Selvaggio urged the Italian populace to reorganize. First meeting occurred July 8 at 87 Third St., Stroudsburg. Instrumental in founding the organization, in addition to Selvaggio, were DeVivo, Philip Simone, Joseph Simone, Constantino Scagliotta, Joseph Buscillo, Campanaro and Salvatore Glorioso. In one year the membership reached 56.

After meeting for several years at the Third Street address, the organization convened in Miller Hall where they continued for 10 more years.

In 1931 the society purchased a building at 314 Main St., and converted it to a lodge and social club and in 1944 the club purchased the property at 408-412 Main St., where the modern building was built and dedicated July 30, 1948.

With the observance of Columbus Day paramount in the annals of Italian-Americans, Sunday's fete is expected to attract 125 persons. Sam Coco will serve as toastmaster. Officers of the association are Michael LaPenna, president; Samuel Zaccaro, vice president; Fred Galazzo, treasurer, and Joseph Pansy, secretary.

Deer Season For Archers Opens Oct. 13

The special archery male deer hunting season opens in the state Monday, Oct. 13, and continues two weeks through Saturday, Oct. 25. Indications are said to be good for quite a number of Monroe County hunters taking advantage of the season.

The archery hunting licenses cost $2 in addition to the $3.15 for the regular hunting licenses. While application blanks have been procurable at the county treasurer's office at the courthouse and some sports goods stores, the licenses are issued at Harrisburg. The supply at the courthouse has been exhausted, P. A. Rockefeller said.

Archery hunters in this region interested in the special season will take advantage of the Hickory Run archery preserve. It was stated by enthusiasts yesterday afternoon.

The rush for doe deer hunting licenses was heavy yesterday.
